

I Spy

Hazem Nassar

Nothing better than playing your favorite game on a beautiful day, surrounded by all the fruit trees.

What could go wrong?

In wartime, anything could.

Dedication

To every child affected by war.

The swing gently rocks while
Amira plays her favorite game.

I spy—

It's her safe corner, far away from the sounds of warplanes and explosions.

About the author

Dr. Hazem Nassar was born in late 1979 to Palestinian parents in Kuwait, where he also grew up and completed his undergraduate education. He then graduated from medical school in Karachi, Pakistan, before moving to the United States later on to work as an internal medicine physician.

Ever since childhood, Hazem has had a passion for cartooning and storytelling, which he eventually managed to dedicate more time to after completing medical residency, leading to the selection of many of his works for several international theme-based exhibitions in different countries around the world.

Growing up an immigrant with Palestinian roots in an extremely diverse neighborhood, along with life in a once-war-torn Kuwait, heavily influenced his ideas and subsequently, his works.
